Senate Grinds Toward Fourth Long Session

Gentlemen's Pact To Speed Action on A-Bill Collapses

By United Press
The legislation-block Senate filibuster ground on today toward a fourth round-the-clock session.

A "gentlemen's agreement" to speed action on the bill at issue, a measure to modernize the Atomic Energy Act of 1946, collapsed in acrimony and the talkathon continued with new vigor.

Knowland, in an angry, hour-long speech, served notice that he will not "abdicate" his responsibility as majority leader to those who are trying to halt passage of the administration's atomic energy bill by the filibuster which now is in its 14th day.

Sen. Clint P. Anderson (D-N.M.), one of the band set on talking to death private power aspects of the measure, said with a straight face that the Senate might still be in session come Thanksgiving.

Today's developments saw a new Senate record for long-distance talking without interruption for a quorum call. It was set by Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind.-Ore.) who started talking at midnight Monday night and kept it up for 12 hours and 22 minutes.

Morse himself had talked for 22 hours and 26 minutes in a filibuster last year against the tideland bill, but that time he was able to rest now and then when calls went out to summon senators to the chamber.

Refuses To Accept Blame
The thousands of words uttered by Morse were summed up in his tag for the atomic bill—"give away legislation."

Morse refused to accept blame for delaying action on important legislation. He said the Republican leadership could get action on other measures any time it wants to by setting the atomic bill aside.

The filibusterers were angered by GOP Leader William F. Knowland's action Monday night in forcing a vote without discussion on an amendment offered by Morse.

Knowland moved to table Morse's amendment. The motion was adopted 43-34.

Senator Anderson said that decided opponents of the bill to resume the filibuster today in earnest.

Carrier Mills Lifts All Restrictions On Use of Water

All restrictions on the use of water in Carrier Mills have been lifted, Mayor Freeman O'Keefe said today.

The Carrier Mills water situation changed rapidly last week when approximately three inches of rain fell in a two-day period, making it possible to pump for many hours and to replenish the reservoir.

At one time seven or eight pumps were in operation with the city getting the loan of pumps from coal companies, the Triangle Construction company and others. However by 3 p. m. Sunday only the 8 inch and 6 inch pumps, regular city pumping equipment, were in operation. They can pump 90,000 gallons of water an hour into the reservoir.

Late last night only the 8 inch pump was in operation, as the water was falling rapidly, Mayor O'Keefe said.

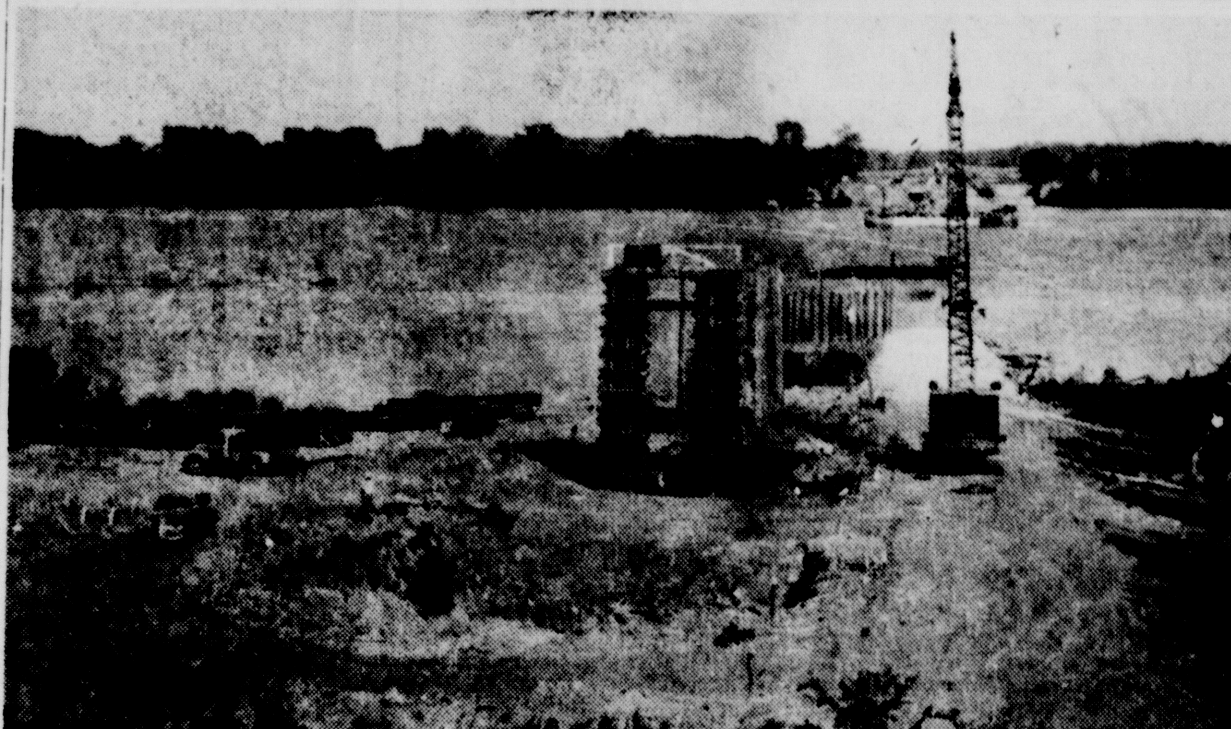

Until the heavy rains last week, Carrier Mills, like many other southern Illinois communities, faced a severe shortage and had restrictions in effect. Now all restrictions are lifted and citizens may wash their automobiles, wash porches and use water in any way they wish.

Illinois Youth Plunges to Death At Scenic Viewpoint

YACHTS, Ore. (AP)—James Hyjan, 19-year-old Cicero, Ill., youth plunged 300 feet to his death from Cape Perpetua on the Oregon coast Monday night when he tried to recover a hat blown off by a gust of wind.

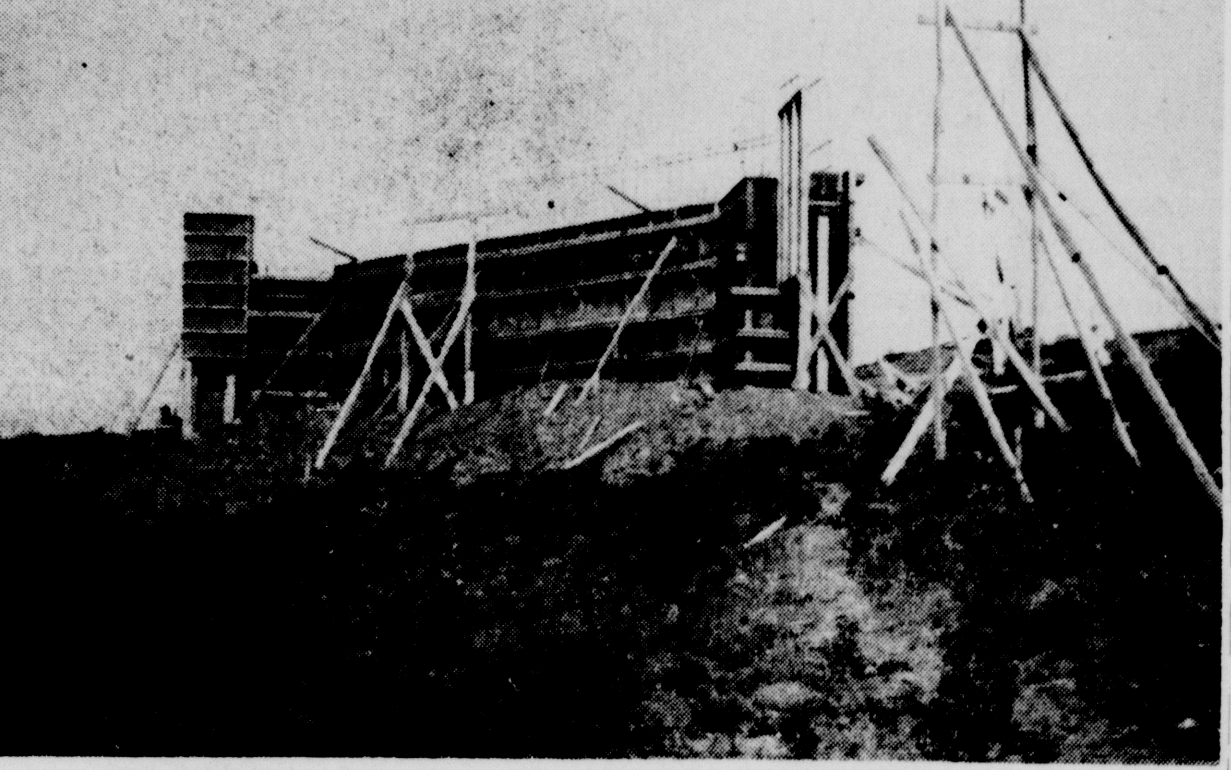

Hyjan and two companions, William Cameron, 19, Elmwood Park, Ill.; and Robert Jones, 19, Cicero, had stopped at the scenic viewpoint about 7 p. m. to take pictures. Hyjan's hat was blown off and he started after it, climbing over a fence built to protect sightseers. Then he lost his footing and fell to the bottom.

Lower photo shows a section of the bridge atop the levee on the Illinois side. This is located only a few yards from the historic old bank building. Plans call for the west end of the bridge to top the levee by 16 feet. Workmen also reveal that the bridge's two 825-foot spans will be the longest cantilever type bridge spans in the world.

Gov. Stratton Asks Federal Relief For Farmers in 41-County Area

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. William G. Stratton today sought federal relief for 41 counties in the southern half of Illinois where farmers are suffering from "a serious drought condition."

Stratton notified Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson that the area, stretching from Adams County southeast to Clark and as far south as Franklin, should be declared a drought "emergency" region.

The governor asked for:
1. Easier terms for loans from the Farmers Home Administration.
2. Relaxed acreage allotments so farmers can plant new feed crops without violating regulations.

State Agriculture Director Stillman J. Stanard announced that Stratton had telegraphed the two requests to Benson after a conference with Stanard and other agriculture officials Monday.

George Reuss, Illinois head of the Farmers Home Administration, said declaring the 41 counties an emergency area would permit his agency to offer farmers "somewhat more liberal" credit terms.

As an example, Reuss said interest rates would be 3 per cent, instead of the normal 5 per cent. Self-Help Must Be First Reuss and Stanard both emphasized, however, that each case must stand on its own merits and no farmer can get the special loans unless he has exhausted his resources and all other means of credit.

Stratton's second request applies to the "total depletion allotment" of certain crops a farmer can grow and still qualify for federal price supports.

Stratton said feed grains "will be short" in the 41 counties, and "farmers will be unable to show a stand of clover for the past two years."

He asked that the depletion allotment be amended to allow farmers to grow "emergency feed crops"—specifically sorghum, rye, barley and oats—not to count against the total depletion allotment if the farmer uses them for feed on the farm.

Stanard said the subject of having sealed corn released at a "reasonable figure" was discussed Monday, too.

Stanard also explained that designating an area as being in a state of "emergency" was milder than saying it was a "disaster" area.

When a disaster is proclaimed, the government provides more aid, at greater expense both to the federal and state governments. No direct spending would be involved in the Stratton requests, he said.

List of Counties

The 41 counties listed by Stratton as suffering "a serious drought condition" included:

Adams, Bond, Brown, Calhoun, Cass, Christian, Clark, Clay, Clinton, Coles, Crawford, Cumberland, Edwards, Effingham, Fayette.

Franklin, Green, Hamilton, Jasper, Jefferson, Jersey, Lawrence, Macoupin, Madison, Marion, Monroe, Montgomery, Morgan, Moultrie, Perry.

Pike, Randolph, Richland, Sangamon, Schuyler, Scott, Shelby, St. Clair, Wabash, Washington and Wayne.

Dr. Menninger Quits State Post

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Dr. Karl A. Menninger, well-known psychiatrist, resigned as consultant to the Illinois Department of Social Welfare because he said state officials failed to consult him.

Menninger said Monday he quit because neither Gov. William G. Stratton nor Welfare Director Otto Bettag had found it "feasible or necessary" to call on him for consultation.

The Topeka psychiatrist, who was named to his post by former Gov. Adlai Stevenson in 1951, said he did not wish to be a consultant "in name" only.

Dr. Menninger is chief of staff of the Menninger Foundation, the world's largest psychiatric training center.

Saline County Fair to Open Next Monday

Heth Shows to Arrive Sunday; Thrill Events Monday Night

The 48th annual Saline County Fair opens next Monday although it will get an unofficial start Sunday with the arrival of the L. M. Heth shows.

A thrill show featuring world famous daredevils is promised for Monday night when Jack Kochman's Hell Drivers will stage the entire program.

One of the events will be the sensational leap of one car over another. Catapulting a speeding open car up a rampway into space as if shot from a gun, its driver sails the auto high over another car passing directly underneath and lands upon a receiving ramp approximately 120 feet away.

There also will be some comedy in this show. Jasper the clown will emerge from a miniature automobile, will let speeding cars run over him and will stand while cars speed by, missing him by an inch.

Tuesday morning and afternoon there will be no admission charge as Kids Day and the 4-H show will be held. The 4-H projects will be judged during the morning. Besides the free admission, carnival rides will be only nine cents until 5 p. m. There also will be judging on Wednesday.

Talent Show Friday Night
Tuesday and Wednesday nights there will be horse racing, gaited and western horse show events and special entertainment in the form of southern Illinois best talent.

Thursday afternoon there will be racing, machinery parade and more special entertainment and that night there will be champion horse show classes, racing, southern Illinois talent and the annual live stock parade. The Saline County Derby will be held that evening.

Friday afternoon will bring about another free gate with more nine-cent carnival rides for children until 5 p. m.

Then will come the big Talent Show program of the fair Friday evening with the entire evening devoted to presenting the cream of southern Illinois entertainment. Five hundred dollars has been set aside to take care of the talent.

The fair will end with the Saline County Beauty Contest and Automobile Show, sponsored by the Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce. The beauties of the county will vie for the title of Miss Saline County of 1954 and 1954 model automobiles of Saline county dealers will be shown and explained in front of the grandstand.

Rhee Sees No Chance of Unifying Korea Without War; Talks with President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Syngman Rhee of South Korea said after a long talk with President Eisenhower today that he saw no possibility of unifying Korea without resumption of war.

"We see no possibility of unifying Korea in a peaceful means," said the 79-year-old head of the Korean government.

Rhee also charged that the effect of the Korean and Indochina truce agreements was "to allow the Chinese Communists to grow stronger."

He said he talked with Mr. Eisenhower in general terms about increasing military aid for Korea. When pressed on this point, he said, "We are not begging—We are beneficiaries of a great humanitarian effort."

Peabody to Abandon No. 8 At Taylorville

CHICAGO (AP)—Peabody Coal Co. announced today that it will close down and abandon its mine No. 8 at Taylorville, Ill., Wednesday.

The mine employs 600 to 700 men. At peak capacity, it produced 8,000 to 9,000 tons per day.

"The closing of mine No. 8 will place the company in a better competitive position for the sale of coal from its central Illinois mines," said O. Gressens, company president.

"The productive capacities of mines No. 10 and No. 17 have been increased above their initial capacities, so that mine No. 8, an old and relatively high cost mine, can now be abandoned."

Third to Close
The mine is the third shut down by Peabody in Illinois in the last year. Previously, the firm closed mine No. 14 at Du Quoin and No. 40 in Saline county.

"It should be pointed out however," Gressens said, "that we are closing No. 8 for a different reason. Those two were marginal mines shut down due to business conditions in the coal trade whereas mine No. 8 simply is inefficient to operate."

In view of the increased production of mines No. 10 and 17, he said, the "closing of mine No. 8 will not reduce the company's total productive capacity."

Hiring at No. 11
Most of the men laid off by the closing of No. 8, he said, will eventually be given opportunity for employment at the company's mine No. 11 which is now being built near Taylorville.

No date has been set for opening No. 11, however, Gressens said. "That will depend upon when the Herscher Dome is completed," he said.

The Herscher Dome is an underground storage area being constructed in the Joliet-Kankakee area to hold natural gas during slack consumption periods for use in Chicago during peak use loads.

Construction of the dome has been hampered by continuous leaks through the overlying rock strata.

Strongly-Worded Notes Delivered Through Britain

Sen. Fulbright Asks Investigation if Reds Seeking War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has protested angrily to Red China against the killing of three Americans aboard a downed British airliner and against air attacks Sunday on U. S. planes engaged in rescue operations.

The protest, in the form of two strongly-worded notes, was transmitted by the British in behalf of the U. S. government. This procedure was necessary because the United States does not maintain diplomatic relations with Red China.

Dispatch of the U. S. protest was confirmed here after British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the British House of Commons that the British were communicating the protest to Red China.

The Sunday attack created a furor in Congress. Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) called for investigation to determine whether the Chinese Communists are trying to goad the United States into war.

U. S. air crews flew in the troubled zone with orders to be "quick on the triggers" if attacked by Red planes.

Relations at New Low
Fulbright said "If the attack was deliberate and the Chinese Communists wish to have war, they can have one. This country is not going to back down from a challenge."

Informed sources said President Eisenhower's top advisers generally feel the incident will not lead to war even though the Navy attack bombers sent two Communist fighters spinning into the South China Sea and U. S. Chinese relations dropped to a new post-Korean low.

Experts pointed out that there has been a long series of East-West plane incidents which have produced charges and counter-charges but no serious moves toward anything like a major military conflict.

Fulbright Reluctant
Fulbright, a key member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he was reluctant to believe Red China wants a war. But he said the possibility can not be ruled out if Peiping deliberately ordered the attack.

He urged the administration to use all its resources to find out if the assault was "authorized" or merely the mistake of "some trigger-happy local boy." The situation is "very serious," he said, if it was authorized.

Expect Indemnity Demand
The U. S. also is expected to demand cash indemnity for the three Americans who were killed and the three who were wounded when the airliner was forced down at sea.

To underline this country's determination not to be intimidated by the Communist attacks, the Navy has ordered the U. S. aircraft carriers Hornet and Philippine Sea to continue the search for survivors of the airliner until all possibilities have been exhausted.

The bombers which downed the Communist fighters were based on the carrier. Adm. Felix B. Stump, U. S. Pacific Fleet commander, says that whether the Communists now calm down "depends on how much trouble they want."

The crew of an Air France Constellation arriving in Hong Kong from Saigon reported today that four Communist fighter planes, presumably Chinese, trailed their plane but did not fire on it.

Sen. Morse Charges GOP 'Clique' Leads U. S. to War in Asia

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse has charged that a "war clique" within the Republican Party is leading the United States into a war in Asia "which we can not win," two sources said.

The first disclosure of the Oregon Independent's charge came from George Arnold, Democratic nominee for Congress in California's 24th District. He returned Monday from Washington, where he had interviewed Morse.

The second source, the Los Angeles Daily News, said it called Morse for further comment. The senator named Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as the leader of the alleged "clique," the newspaper said.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
Will God indeed dwell on the earth? Behold, the heaven and earth cannot contain thee.—1 Kings 8:27.

It is a staggering thought that the intelligence and will that uphold the utmost star are also revealed in our subconscious mind. We can command measureless power, if we lay claim to the power within us, and use it.

House-Cleaning Time

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
The changes in Senator McCarthy's investigating committee staff were foreshadowed as the Army-McCarthy hearings drew to a close in mid-June. They cannot be viewed as a surprise.

As it happens, Roy Cohn, committee counsel, resigned; Donald Surine was transferred to McCarthy's personal senatorial staff, and Thomas W. LaVenia was put on retainer. He may lose his job unless further inquiry indicates a change in his security status.

But if events had not taken this particular course with Cohn and Surine, the chances are great that they too would have been marked for possible firing from the staff.

Surine and LaVenia are the two men who have been denied security clearance by the Defense Department. Cohn of course was a principal target of the Army in the recent hearings, having been charged with using improper pressure to seek favors for Pvt. G. David Schine.

All these men were in trouble the moment Senator Potter of Michigan called for a staff house cleaning at the end of the hearings. For Potter's vote added to those of the three committee Democrats is sufficient to put across any motion even though it be opposed by McCarthy and his two supporters, Senator Dirksen and Mundt.

Cohn's resignation was represented by McCarthy as being the result of "smears." He called it a great victory for communism. This is both misstatement and overstatement.

Cohn is a bright lad but he is not indispensable to a sound fight on communism. Indispensable men are rare. Furthermore any usefulness he might have had was seriously impaired by his evident inability to control himself emotionally.

There were reams of testimony in support of the charge that Cohn scattered threats around like buckshot. He used the power of a committee as if it were his. Even McCarthy, it was shown in a monitored phone call, said Cohn can be "completely unreasonable."

Let it be clear that this was his downfall. If the reporting of his emotional outbursts constituted "smears" then Cohn himself smeared Cohn.

As for Surine and LaVenia, the specific reasons why they are without Defense Department clearance have not been revealed and apparently will not be.

Surine was fired by the FBI for reasons not given and the answer in his case may lie there. LaVenia, a former Secret Service man, says he once was briefly linked with a young lawyers' group denounced by McCarthy himself as a "Communist front." He thinks that might explain his failure to get clearance.

It is ironic that two staff men on the committee which is by all odds the roughest on people who have trouble explaining certain past actions and associations should now be feeling the same lash. This is a day when men do not always know their accusers or the charges against them. It is also a day when even investigators are investigated — and accused.

Whatever the ultimate fate of LaVenia the McCarthy staff will have had at least a partial house cleaning. One would like to think it is the beginning of a new mood of responsibility on this committee which so far, under McCarthy's leadership, has been distinguished by a singular lack of it.

Old Stick-in-the-Mud

DREW PEARSON Says:
Whither South Korea Without Rhee? Courageous Korean Lives For His Country; Political Bickering Hinders Reconstruction.

(Editors' Note: Today Drew Pearson awards the brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, to Dr. Syngman Rhee of South Korea.)

WASHINGTON — One of the four octogenarians on whom the United States is leaning in vital parts of the world is now in Washington receiving the deserved tribute of President Eisenhower.

He is Dr. Syngman Rhee, cantankerous, crusading president of South Korea, without whose stubborn patriotism Korea would not be even half alive today; yet whose stubbornness today may either upset the precarious peace of the Far East or prevent the orderly reconstruction of his country.

Dr. Rhee is no 79 years old. And like another old man, Chancellor Adenauer, on whom we are relying in another vital area, he cannot last forever. And because Chiang Kai-Shek also is reaching the twilight of his years with no one groomed to succeed him, and because 79-year-old Winston Churchill, our best champion in England, is certain to step down soon, realist diplomats are wondering whom the United States intends to lean on after these octogenarians are gone. Are we grooming no young men for the future?

At best, Dr. Rhee can carry on only two or three years longer. In Germany, Konrad Adenauer can remain chancellor only a short time. Yet our whole policy in Germany is aimed at arming a government which three years from now may put all the arms we give it in the hands of the anti-American forces almost certain to succeed the aged patriot of West Germany.

In Formosa, with no one trained to succeed the aging champion of Nationalist China, how can we buck Red China's entry into the United Nations after Chiang is gone?

Unfortunately the dominating dispositions of elder statesmen are such that it's difficult to train successors. In Korea, Dr. Rhee has fired 200 cabinet ministers. For he is the whole show. He is South Korea. Without him there would be no South Korea, and unless you please him you serve not one day longer in his cabinet.

His grit, his determination have made Korea what it is today. But his refusal to cooperate with others may tear down the very thing he has built.

For when Rhee leaves this earthly scene, as leave he must, the man likely to succeed him is Lee Bum Suk, a Fascist-minded undependable who could embrace communism with the same facility he embraces Republicanism.

Such is our diplomacy of looking to the past, not the future. On such frail cornerstones is our policy, in an area drenched with America blood, based today.

PLATEN BY BAMBOO

When you look back over the vista of Syngman Rhee's nearly eighty years you can understand why he is sometimes difficult to deal with. During those years he has been beaten with bamboo rods daily for seven months. He has had oil paper wrapped round his wrists and set on fire. He has had his fingers mashed so horribly that even today he blows on them to keep them warm. He has had to wear a 20-pound cage around his neck and sit with his feet and hands locked in stocks.

He has spent seven years in prison, 41 years in exile, has had a $300,000 Japanese price put on his head. He has been rebuffed. He has been disheartened. But he has never ceased fighting for the liberty of the barren little country which became the symbol of free world resistance against the Communist world.

And having staged that fight and suffered much punishment, you can understand why when he talks about resuming war against North Korea he really means it.

ONE MONTH WAR??

Though the American army has cut off his gasoline, Rhee has carefully hoarded gas, stored it in secret caches until he has enough to permit the well-trained South Korean army to resume war perhaps a month or more.

And the patriot of Korea is just stubborn enough to precipitate such war. After all, he was promised the unity of his country; and only on that condition did he agree to an armistice. He was promised a satisfactory peace at the Geneva conference. But that conference has come and gone with Korea hardly mentioned.

He was told by assistant secretary of state Walter Robertson, the man who persuaded Rhee to accept a truce, that Korea would be united and that the real danger was not in Korea but that China would turn its attention to what she really wants — the vast riches of Southeast Asia.

Rhee has now seen that prediction come true. He has seen China cut another line dividing a nation, a line of military expediency sure to become a line of political expediency. Yet the line across Korea still remains.

Obviously Dr. Rhee, in Washington today, is justified in saying: "I told you so."

GRAFT IN HIGH PLACES

Worst tragedy in South Korea today is the failure of reconstruction. It has now been three years since there was fighting much below the 38th parallel. But in that time little has been done to rebuild a shattered nation. Money has been spent — large amounts of money — but there is little to show for it.

Part of it has evaporated in graft; for no contractor or importer can do business in Korea without greasing the palms of people in high places.

But part of the trouble is bickering over reconstruction. Rhee wants a slick, modern highway built the length and breadth of South Korea. American advisers have wanted rebuilt homes for the Korean people. American generals haven't relished the cooperation of UNKRA, the U. N. group for Korean reconstruction. They want to kick the U. N. out, not realizing the tremendous political advantage of U. N. support.

But while South Korea stagnates, North Korea, unhampered by political bickering, booms. The Reds are trying to make it a model for northern Asia.

Meanwhile, what would happen to South Korea if the U. S. pulled the plug of American dollars next

Russia Offers Co-Existence or Threat of Ruin

LONDON — Russia today offered peace and co-existence on Soviet terms to the West, and threatened "ruin of the entire capitalist system" if the West refuses.

The call for peaceful co-existence and the threat were contained in a dispatch in the Soviet Communist party organ, Pravda, which was broadcast by Radio Moscow. It emphasized these three points:

1. "The foreign policy of the Soviet Union is based on the principle that peaceful co-existence of socialism and capitalism is possible."

2. "Contrary to this, the aggressive elements of the United States resolutely reject the idea of peaceful co-existence of socialism and capitalism."

3. "The enemies of peace should remember well that rejection of the idea of co-existence can lead only to the smashing defeat of the aggressors and the ruin of the entire capitalist system."

Bryant Family to Hold 18th Annual Reunion Sunday Near New Haven

Members of the Bryant family will hold their eighteenth annual reunion Aug. 1 at Union Ridge Presbyterian church, near New Haven.

Also at the reunion will be a few Bryans, O'Brians and O'Briens, for they claim a common ancestry. As is frequently the case when a family becomes scattered, the spelling of the name becomes corrupted. The potential membership in the group is said to number more than 2000.

Each year they came from parts of Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Missouri, Arkansas, North and South Dakota, Arizona, California and Florida, to renew their acquaintances and join in family fellowship with their relatives who have remained in Illinois.

The Bryants trace their ancestry to one Daniel Bryant who came from Virginia to Southern Illinois in 1816. It was wilderness country, and Indians were still paddling their canoes down the Little Wabash river.

Bryant and his young wife, Sibbie Sewell Bryant, came in an ox-drawn covered wagon to help open up and settle the new country. The log house they built in the clearing in what later became White County, was still standing until five years ago within a few miles of Union Ridge church where the reunion has been held in recent years. It was from this Daniel Bryant family of five sons and four daughters that the Illinois branch bearing the name descended. Among them are found men and women in all walks of life today.

Mrs. Mary Haas of Mount Vernon, Ind., a great-great-granddaughter of the Illinois pioneers, has been considered the official historian of the group for many years. Her authority in matters of data and family lore is never questioned. It is generally presumed the Bryants of this group sprang from the same British ancestry as did William Cullen Bryant, the bard of New England.

The reunion organization has had the same officers for several years. Dan Bryant of Norris City is president; Dr. Joe Bryant of Ridgway, vice president, and Tracy L. Bryant of Carbondale is secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. Rhoda Bryant Flota of Eldorado, 94 years old, is believed to be the oldest member of the Bryant family group, living.

Soviet Subs Make Hainan Island New Trouble Spot

By United Press
Communist determination to shield Soviet submarine operations in the South China Sea from Western eyes has made Hainan Island the newest trouble spot in the Far East.

The Red planes that have attacked three Western aircraft off Hainan since Friday all were operating in the vicinity of the super-secret Soviet submarine base at Yulin, near Hainan's southern tip. The port and naval base there were built during World War II to support Japanese aggression in Southeast Asia. They fell into the hands of the Communists when they conquered China.

The Russians recently were reported to have moved "substantial" U-boat forces there from the Kamchatka Peninsula, some 3,400 airline miles to the northeast, perhaps to support their announced determination of breaking through the Nationalist blockade of the China Coast.

Hainan is the strategic key to the northwestern reaches of the South China Sea, dominating the approaches to Indochina and China's southern coast.

4-H Club News

The business and social meeting of the Jolly Workers 4-H club was held at the Presbyterian church Friday at 2 p. m.

The meeting was called to order by the president and roll call was answered by each member introducing her guest.

The guests were entertained by Rita Davenport and Ann Clévenger who tap danced and by Marilyn Brown who sang a solo, accompanied by George Dennis.

The girls also modeled their newly-made skirts and scarves. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served.

The peculiar looping motion of the desert rattlesnakes, the adder-winder, keeps its body off the hot ground as much as possible.

Miss Shirley Moore, Robert Eugene Hackler Wed July 11 at Ridgefarm

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eugene Hackler

The Federated church in Ridgefarm was the scene of a pretty summer wedding Sunday, July 11, when Miss Shirley Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moore, Ridgefarm, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Moore of Harrisburg, became the bride of Robert Eugene Hackler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hackler, Ridgefarm.
The double ring ceremony was performed at 3 p. m. before an altar banked with potted palms, baskets of white gladioli and lighted candelabra, by the Rev. Robert S. White, pastor of the Methodist church of East Lynn, formerly of the Federated church, in the presence of one hundred guests.
Mrs. George Castle, organist, played a medley of bridal airs and accompanied Mrs. Earl Weathers, who sang "Because" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told."
The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a white frosted nylon ballerina length gown, over white taffeta fashioned with a fitted bodice. She wore mits to match. Her fingertip veil was fitted to a lace cap, adorned with pearls and rhinestones.
She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid, tied with white satin streamers, knotted with stephanotis.
Miss Chloann Moore, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a pink nylon ballerina length dress with a white lace hat and pink mits. She carried a colorful bouquet of pastel colored flowers.
Billy Joe Hackler attended his brother as best man.
Peggy Brewer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brewer, was flower girl.
Ushers were John Lee Moore, brother of the bride, Jim Erdmann and Robert Thornton. Mr. Moore and Mr. Erdmann lighted the tapers.
The bride's mother wore a costume of steel blue gray with white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.
The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue ensemble with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.
A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church dining room for the bridal party and relatives.
The bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Flowers surrounded the cake and lighted tapers were on either end of the table. Mrs. Wil-

Union Leader Charges Libel by Rival Officials
MARION, Ill. (UP)—A union business agent today filed a $10,000 suit against two rival union officials, charging they libeled him in a handbill distributed at a Herrin plant.
Russell Lovelace, Marion, business agent for the Illinois Association of Machinists, filed the suit against Smithie Weathers, Marphysboro, business agent for the United Mine Workers, and Grover Duty, Marion, regional director of District 50 of the UMW.
Lovelace said he was libeled in a handbill circulated at the Allen Industries manufacturing plant at Herrin Feb. 22, 1954.
The suit was filed in Williamson County Circuit Court here.
Lovelace said the handbill called him names which made him "appear ridiculous" and impaired his and his family's "enjoyment of general society."

FBI Questions Boy in Piggy Bank, Cookie Jar Robberies at Annapolis
ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—The FBI now has another crime problem to contend with—cookie and piggy bank robberies.
The FBI is questioning an 11-year-old suspect in connection with five piggy bank robberies and the disappearance of a large jar of cookies.
The thefts were reported by families of naval personnel in the North Severn Homes section here and the FBI was called into the case when Anne Trundel county juvenile authorities refused to prosecute the youth.
The FBI said about $35 was ported taken besides a large jar of cookies from one home.

British, Egypt Agree on Suez Troop Removal

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Authoritative Egyptian sources said Britain and Egypt reached agreement today on the major disputed points in negotiations to remove British troops from the Suez Canal Zone.
These sources said the big break in the lengthy bargaining had come at a two-and-a-half hour meeting at the government rest house in the shadow of the pyramids.
They said a preliminary agreement containing the principle of British withdrawal would be initiated late today. A full treaty then will have to be written, but the major hurdle that has been holding up a settlement for so long appeared to have been cleared.
Informed sources said earlier Britain had given in on two of the three outstanding points then still at issue. Britain was reported to have agreed:
1. That terms of the agreement allowing British troops to return to the Suez base in case of aggression be good for seven years. Britain had been demanding 10 years.
2. That an attack on Iran not be one of the instances of aggression that would give the British the automatic right to man the vital Suez base again. It had been agreed earlier that Britain would have this right in case of an attack on Turkey or any of the Arab states.
The third major point that had been disputed was the length of time Britain should be allowed to complete withdrawal of the 80,000 canal zone troops.

Plenty of A-Materials for Peace Uses: Cole

WASHINGTON (AP)—We have fissionable matter to spare and can afford to get started now on atomic developments like food preservation, medicine, and electric power.

Chairman W. Sterling Cole of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy committee told reporters prospects in all these fields are excellent, and that nuclear material is on hand to supply them. Our military stockpile will not be jeopardized, Cole said.

These and other peaceful uses of the atom are what the House had in mind in approving the administration's new atomic bill Monday.

The same goals are sought under a similar bill still up in the Senate today after two weeks of debate.

Paves Way for Atom Pool

Both bills also would authorize broader international cooperation on military and peacetime atomic matters. First steps could be taken toward President Eisenhower's proposed world "atomic pool" for peaceful purposes.

Under the present law nobody but the government can work with fissionable matter. Under House and Senate bills the door would be opened now to private enterprise.

Under the House bill patents for the first time would be issued on atomic inventions, except where the government paid for the research work. This will encourage experimentation, Cole said.

The Atomic Energy Commission for the first time would license atomic enterprises like power plants. It also will rent to such enterprises the fissionable matter they need to operate.

Under the House version, the AEC itself would be precluded from developing power, except as a by-product. This may lead to a conflict with the Senate, which has voted to give AEC authority to make and sell electricity if it wants to.

Cole said he will stand firm on this when the House and Senate bills go to conference for a compromise. He said the government will have plenty of time later, after it is proved practical, to decide if it wants to go into the atomic power business.

"We now know that atomic energy can be used to generate electric power," he said. "We do not know yet whether it can be made competitive with conventionally generated power."

An inquest will be held Wednesday or Thursday.

Mansfield Urges Lower Truck Fees

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A truck industry official today called for lower Illinois truck license fees to aid truckers suffering "a severe loss of business due to the drought."

Charles F. Mansfield, general manager of the Agricultural Transportation Assn., said in a letter to Gov. William G. Stratton that "thousands" of small truckers face "complete ruin."

"Already the victims of an unjust and crushing tax burden, the small local and farm-to-market truckers are now suffering a severe loss of business due to the drought," he said.

SWEETIE PIE

By Nadine Seltzer

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Water supplies of 20 Illinois towns today were reported in "critical or near critical" condition.

C. W. Klassen, chief state sanitary engineer, turned in the report to Gov. William G. Stratton, who asked that data be prepared each week on water shortages for the duration of current drought conditions.

Klassen listed the 20 towns, as of Sunday, as Ashley, Assumption, Astoria, Beecher City, Blandinsville, Brownstown, Cartersville, Coulterville, Elkville, Flora, Greenfield, Harrisburg, Highland, Kincaid, Louisville, Lovington, Mount Sterling, Nashville, Paris and Teutopolis.

He reported that Brownstown, Cartersville and Greenfield are hauling "part or all of the day's supply" from nearby public water supplies.

Several of the 20 have been getting water from other emergency sources, Klassen said, "but it has not relieved the drought condition."

The engineer also told Stratton that a total of 26 Illinois cities have been forced to supplement their normal water supplies from emergency sources—strip mines, railroad reservoirs, or new wells.

You get four guesses—giving yourself ten points for a correct first choice, five for a second, three for a third and one point for a correct fourth pick. If you score twenty or more points, you're up on your baseball—fifty, you're exceptional—that's tops!

() Hodges () Musial () Kluzewski () Sauer () Mathews () Zernial

2. Up to July 17, seven grand slam homers were hit by players on the losing team—which one of the players listed below had two grand slammers in losing games this season?

Bishop Sentenced In Czechoslovakia

BERLIN (AP)—A Communist court in Prague, Czechoslovakia, has sentenced Roman Catholic Bishop Stephan Trochta of Litomerice (Leititz) to 25 years in prison on spy charges, the official Communist East German radio reported today.

The Red broadcast said the bishop was convicted of engaging for the Vatican in espionage activities aimed at overthrow of the Communist regime in Czechoslovakia.

Three other Roman Catholic priests were sentenced to terms ranging from 7 to 20 years for alleged complicity in the plot.

3. What player active in 1953 had hit eight more home runs up to July 17 of this season than he did in all of 1953?
() Hodges () Musial () Sauer () Vernon

4. What player struck out for the first time this season in his 62nd game of the season—although the umpire called only two strikes on him?
() Courtney () Kuenn () Schell () Cole () Pesky () Temple

5. Don Mueller hit for the cycle (single, double, triple and homer) on July 11. Which player shown below was the last to accomplish the feat before Mueller?

Five weeks from Monday is August 30 and that is the opening day of football practice. Whoever it was that said "time flies" sure spoke the truth.

Ron McCoy and Jackie Reese, 1954 graduates of Eldorado Township high school and members of the Eagle football team last season are now in the armed forces. They entered service July 8, with the paratroopers, and are stationed at Camp Chaffee, Arkansas.

Majors Reject Plan for Inter-League Games

NEW YORK (AP)—The major leagues, having rejected a proposal for inter-league competition during the regular season, today plan to work out a new rule under which U. S. players will be permitted to perform in the Caribbean and Mexican winter leagues.

Hank Greenberg's revolutionary proposal that the big league play inter-league games during the regular season was withdrawn before a joint American-National league meeting Monday after it was defeated in an American league session.

The Cleveland general manager's plan, one of the agenda at the majors' annual summer meeting, called for each big league team to play four games with every other club of the rival circuit. But the recommendation was withdrawn at a joint meeting before Commissioner Ford Frick after it had drawn heavy opposition from Greenberg's own circuit. It was attacked by Chicago, Washington, Detroit, New York and Philadelphia.

In other action, the leagues: 1. Awarded the 1955 All-Star game to Milwaukee but set no date for it. Ruled that no games shall be played following the Sunday inter-league games.

Burkemo, Chick Harbert in Finals Of PGA Tourney

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Walter Burkemo, 36-year-old defending champion, and twice-runner-up Chick Harbert tee off today in the finals of the 36th annual PGA golf tournament.

The two Detroit-area golfers battle through 36 holes over rolling Koller public course in the climax of the week-long journey.

Burkemo had to go one extra hole to edge out veteran Cary Middlecoff in their 36-hole semifinal match Monday and won it with a sensational birdie three on the 37th hole.

Harbert, of the Detroit suburb of Northville, runner-up in PGA meets of 1947 and 1952, held off a late threat by Tommy Bolt of Houston and cinched a one-up victory with an eight-foot putt on the 36th green.

Burkemo was shooting for his second straight PGA crown today—the greatest match-play title a golfer can win. If he wins it, he'll be the first to do so since Denny Shute won in 1936 and 1937.

Cokes, Karnes, Palace, Shells Win in Kiwanis

In Monday's games in Kiwanis league play the Cokes defeated Texaco, 10-3; Karnes turned in a 12-2 victory over the Lions; Palace won a free-scoring game from Triple A, 24-14, and Shells beat the Excel nine, 9-4.

B. Henshaw turned in a good pitching performance for the Cokes as he allowed Texaco just three hits and three runs. He received good support from his teammates who smashed 12 hits, eight for extra bases, and 10 runs. Cummins led the attack with three hits including a triple and home run. Evans was the losing hurler.

Hefner turned in a two-hitter and smashed three hits to spark Karnes in its win over the Lions. C. Henshaw was the loser.

The Palace nine recaptured first place following its victory over Triple A. Feazel and Griffith were the hitting stars with three apiece. Feazel hit two homers and Griffith hit two triples as they led the winners' 16-hit barrage. Wilson was the loser.

Howton allowed the Excel team four runs in the first inning and then shut them out for six innings as the Shells won, 9-4. D. Price and Hefner led the winners with two hits apiece. Murrow had three hits to lead the losers. Childs was the losing pitcher.

Dodgers Rout Maglie 9-1; Fifth Straight Loss For the New York Giants

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

Old pros PeeWee Reese and Jackie Robinson agreed today that the New York Giants have been yanked back to earth but insisted "it'll be a long, hard road," before the Brooklyn Dodgers win the National league pennant.

"We beat Sal Maglie and they looked terrible," Reese conceded after the Dodgers' 9-1 rout of the first-place Giants Monday night. "But they've got a sound club and they're not going to panic. They're no more panicky now than we were three weeks ago when they beat us six straight games."

The loss not only marked the end of Maglie's four-year mastery over the Dodgers at Ebbets Field, but was the Giants' fifth straight defeat—their longest losing streak of the year. Their once massive seven-game lead had dwindled to a mere three games and there was talk that Leo Durocher's bubble had burst, and that the Giants were about to bow out of the race with as thunderous a crash as when they entered it.

Reese, Robinson Disagree

But Reese and Robinson refused to accept the theory and Manager Walt Alston was inclined to agree, although Brooklyn's "Silent Man" shrugged off the debacle as "just another game along a long road."

"We're going to catch 'em all right," said Robinson, who batted three hits in the 15-hit assault on four Giants pitchers. "But it won't be easy. They're playing bad ball but they're a good team. Maglie looked no better or worse than he's pitched against us many times before. We'll win because we're the better ball club, not because they're going to collapse."

"Robinson and Reese have given us needed impetus in the last week," Alston said. "Now it's up to Roy Campanella."

"He's pressing so hard," Alston continued, referring to Campanella. "He could be the key man for us now and consequently the key man of the entire race."

To Have Hand Examined

Campanella, who is scheduled to have his injured left hand examined Wednesday, failed to hit safely in four tries Monday night. But Alston isn't giving up hope on the two-time "Most Valuable Player" in the National League.

"He'll be all right," Alston said. "He's pressing now because he wants to help us so much. But there's nothing physically wrong with him. He'll come around."

Maglie has a 10-9 lifetime mark at Ebbets Field and an overall career record of 21-7 against the Dodgers before Monday's night game, but was hammered for 11 hits and six runs in five innings. The Dodgers continued their attack on three successors, turning the game into a rout with a three-run sixth-inning rally during which they made only one hit.

Erskine Victor

Carl Erskine, meanwhile, turned in a five-hitter to gain his 12th victory.

In the only other major league game Monday, the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Pittsburgh Pi-

Little by little the coupe assumed a new shape. The shape of the nose changed to a simple curve. The fenders changed, too, sweeping back, dipping gently, fading into the body.

It was combed back, so to speak, given a curved windshield, a graceful slope and a flowing rear deck. And when it was assembled, he was ready to paint. He wanted at least seven coats when the color had been decided upon.

He was sanding on it the night Sharon came in to ask about upholstery materials.

Sharon looked at the unpainted body of the new coupe. "You did it."

"Did what?"
"The lines you wanted. Even now it has a look of lightness, of flight, almost. As though it would be as light and graceful as a bird. It's terrific."

"I see it jet black," Ricky said, sitting down tiredly.

"Like nine out of 10 others will be."

"What else?"
"I saw an interesting color combination for home decoration in a magazine. It combined pink, brown, and copper."

"Pink!" Ricky yelled. "Pink! Not my coupe, lady."

"I thought you'd react like that."

Sharon said, "So I bought a little model car and painted it that way. Soft pink, brown and copper. Like this."

She unwrapped the little car she had brought and Ricky's eyes bulged. It was something!

The body of the car was a soft, glowing pink. The wheels and other metal trim had been tinted a coppery color instead of the usual chrome. The interior was the brown of good leather. The wheel was white, the dash a natural-wood tone. All metal parts were also coppery.

"Well?" Sharon asked.

Ricky looked from the little model to his coupe, seeing it done the same way.

"You've got it," Ricky said.

"You've got it. You're a terrific partner. I... I could kiss you for that."

"Do you need other reasons?" Sharon teased.

The coupe's fate was decided. It would be pink, brown and copper.

Had he worked openly, Dellville would have been bored and critical. But when Ricky's rod was put under wraps, Dellville became curious, and interested. Ricky wouldn't talk, nor Sharon, nor his father, nor the body-shop men who were helping. And because everyone working on the coupe kept the secret, Dellville wondered if it really had something big coming up.

Asked about his rod at school, Ricky would just grin and shake his head. Asked about it at the bank, his father would say it was "something," and change the subject. Body-shop men would say that Dellville was going to be surprised, and that was all. The way interest piled up, the day of the unveiling was looked forward to like a holiday.

And the day came during the Thanksgiving holiday, and although school was out, the school band had assembled on the square, where Ricky's car would be shown for the first time. The mayor was going to give him the town's blessing.

Rather than risk getting the coupe dirty, or in an accident, a car dealer had offered him the use of a truck to deliver the coupe to the show. It was on the truck, covered, and it would be shown to the town before they drove away.

As soon as the truck parked, the crowd closed in. Ricky climbed up the back and stood by the coupe. The mayor came up a small ladder and walked to Ricky, shaking his hand.

The mayor signaled for quiet, and after the crowd had yelled a little louder in response, he said a few words. He said he had noticed certain young drivers with a certain stick of a certain club, and he had been impressed by their courtesy. He imagined, he said, that the council would be glad to listen to any plans they might have about auto-sports events.

The canvas was rolled back and the little coupe was revealed to every eye in the brittle light of the November morning.

It was beautiful. The pink body shone with the soft depth of the inside of a sea shell, the copper trim and copper-wire wheels added a subdued richness. And the inside! Completely lined with a dark brown leather-like fabric, the instrument panel finished in antique pine, the instruments ringed with a thin line of copper, and the steering wheel a circle of gleaming white.

Ricky stood by proudly while the crowd pressed in close around the truck, looking in the open doors of the coupe, exclaiming, amazed, impressed.

Arnie VanZuuk climbed the ladder at the back of the truck and walked toward Ricky, every ounce of his bulk exuding pleasure and pride.

"A beauty... ya, a beauty," Arnie chuckled. "Who would guess this is the same one you bought six months ago from Merle?"

"It has changed a little," Ricky admitted, ready to burst with pride. "Think I'll win any prizes?"

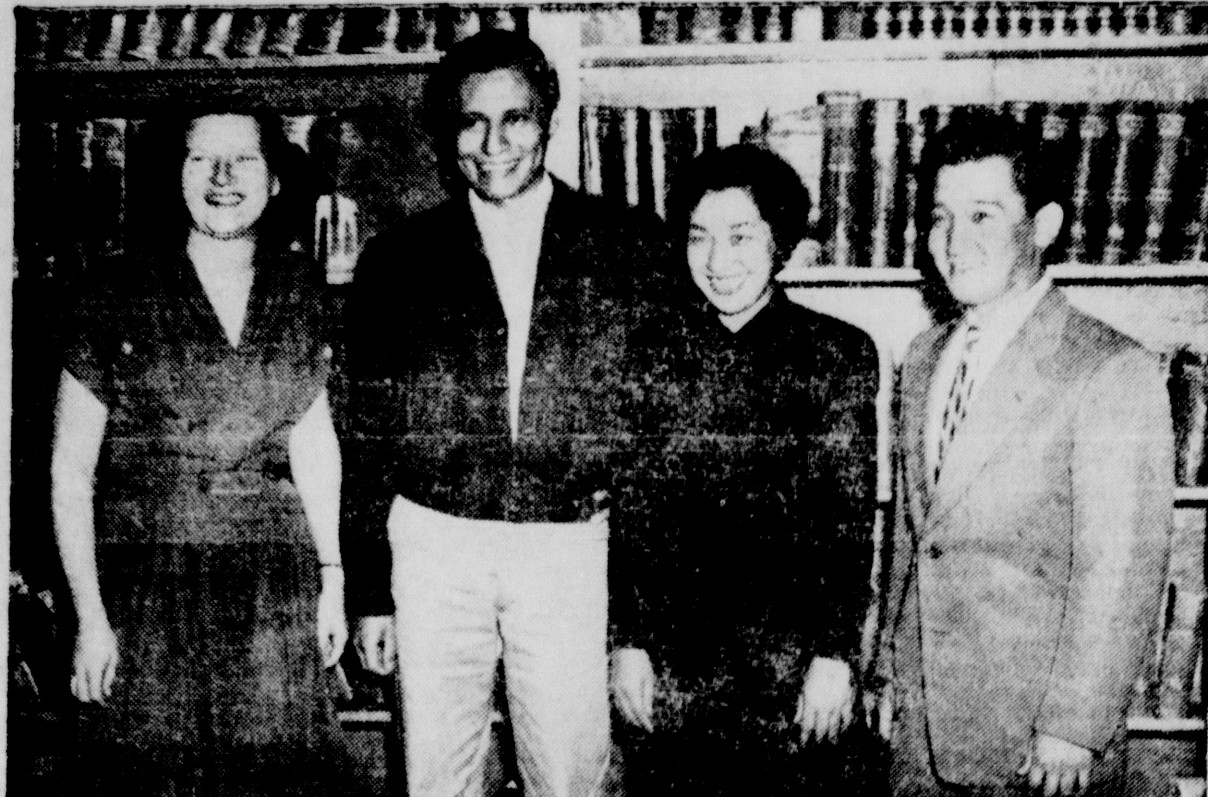

"I think you win them all," Arnie said. "But the big one you win is here."

"Here?"
"I think maybe you fellows get a drag strip. I been listening to the mayor. You'd think it was his idea."

World Missions Team to Appear at First Baptist Church Wednesday Night

From four sections of the world have come Katsuro Taura, Honolulu, Hawaii; Misako Hirabe, Yokohama, Japan; Samuel Hernandez, Monterrey, Mexico; and Ethel Marie Goss, Plainview, Tex., who make up the Wayland College World Missions Team which will appear at the First Baptist church in Harrisburg, Wednesday, July 28, at 7:30 p. m.

These young college and seminary students are dedicating their summer vacation to carrying a message of missions wherever an opportunity presents itself for their testimony in word and in song. Theirs are testimonies which thrill and inspire other young people.

Leader of the group is Katsuro Taura who began graduate work at Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, last session after having served in the United States Army. He is a graduate of Wayland college, which he entered after his conversion which took place while he was attending the University of Hawaii. His Buddhist family turned against him and refused to send him to college because of his desertion of his family religion.

Ethel Marie Goss, who is pianist for the group, has had much experience in church work and youth revivals. She has devoted much time to this mission work. When she was a senior in Capitol Hill high school, Oklahoma City, she was given the Mu Phi Epsilon award for outstanding work in music. She also serves as one of the chapel pianists at Wayland.

Samuel Hernandez, who is the son of the pastor of First Baptist church, Monterrey, studied music at the University of Guadalajara and lived at the Baptist Student Home before enrolling at Wayland college to study music. As a member of the International A Cappella Choir, he has appeared as soloist in his home town of Monterrey and in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Colorado.

Misako Hirabe, the International Choir's Japanese contralto soloist, is a product of Southern Baptist missions, having been graduated from Sochin Girls' high school and Kanto Gaukin Women's college, a junior college. The 66th Ordinance Battalion and Chaplain Burr Millican made it possible for her to attend Wayland by raising money for her passage and for things they thought she needed to attend an American college. While working as typist-interpreter, she voluntarily assisted with Chaplain Millican's program and served as interpreter as they went out to talk with Japanese workers about Christ.

Rev. Joe Morman, pastor of the First Baptist church, is personally acquainted with these students since the church he pastored before coming here was only ten miles from Wayland college.

He invites all people who are interested in foreign missions to come and get a first hand account of what is being done to help bring real peace upon this earth. An offering will be taken to help take care of the expenses of the team and the remainder will go in to the mission fund.

Believe Woman Lured Teenage Girl to Death

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Police believed today that a job-seeking teenage girl may have been lured to her death at the hands of a "woman crazy" salesman by a prostitution ring recruiter.

Meanwhile officers searched the "red light" district of East St. Louis, Ill., for a woman named "Ruth." It was "Ruth" who brought attractive Dorothy Poore to the hotel room where she was strangled July 16.

Victor Lively, a stocky roofing salesman, has confessed he lured the 18-year-old girl when she resisted his sexual advances. He stuffed her near nude body into a dresser drawer and was captured Friday in Missouri trying to hitch-hike to Texas.

Lively has been described by witnesses as "woman crazy."

Indianapolis detectives said they believed "Ruth" may have been recruiting for a prostitution ring. They theorized she brought Dorothy to Lively's hotel room on the pretext of helping her find a job.

Capt. Robert Keilly, chief of homicide, said investigation showed Dorothy "was a nice girl and that she became the pawn in some sordid plot."

Dorothy, who graduated from the Clinton, Ind., high school only last June, had come to Indianapolis looking for a job. Her mother has said she was not the kind of girl who would have gone to a man's hotel room.

Police Check Past

Police, seeking to find why Dorothy met her death, checked further into the backgrounds of Lively, 25, and his former employer, Albert Cohen, 37, of Belleville, Ill.

Cohen has been arrested in the murder as an accessory after the fact. Lively told investigators that Cohen and "Ruth" were in the Claypool hotel room with him a short time before the slaying.

The salesman telephoned his boss the day after the slaying and told him what he had done, police said Lively told them.

Police at East St. Louis, where Cohen was arrested, said he denied Lively's reported accusation that he sent two men to help his employee cram Dorothy's body into the dresser drawer.

Highlights of Primaries in Three States

By United Press

Highlights in the primaries held today in Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma:

ARKANSAS

Veteran Sen. John L. McClellan, Democratic leader during Army-McCarthy hearings, was opposed by former Gov. Sid McMath, state's one-time political "boy wonder," and Democratic National Committee-man Paul Chambers. McClellan's "conservatism" the main issue as he bid for a third term. McMath rocketed from district attorney to governor's chair, was finally defeated with McClellan's help. Chambers polled more votes than other candidates combined in gaining party post. Democratic nomination is tantamount to election. Turnout of 275,000 to 300,000 expected.

LOUISIANA

Sen. Allen J. Ellender sought fourth term against two Democratic candidates—National Committee-man Frank B. Ellis and State Rep. Gilbert Faulk. Ellender, Senate successor to late "Kingfish" Huey Long, attacked by both opponents for his Washington record. Eight congressional seats also at stake, with State Rep. George Long, member of Long clan, one of the candidates. However, "Longism" not a major issue this year. Estimated turnout, 60 per cent of 849,689 registered Democrats. Democratic nomination is tantamount to election.

OKLAHOMA

About 400,000 expected to vote in runoff races for Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Republican senatorial choice, GOP opponents Raymond Fields, Guyton publisher, and Fred Mock, former U. S. attorney, fighting for chance to oppose Sen. Robert S. Kerr in November. Either Democrat William O. Coe, Oklahoma City lawyer, or his former campaign manager, State Sen. Raymond Gary, will face Republican Reuben Sparks in fall. Oklahoma has never had a GOP governor.
